

MIDSIZE AGENCIES Division

The Midsize Agencies Division is dedicated to providing a voice within law enforcement agencies comprising of 50 to 999 sworn officers. In 2009, the Midsize Agencies Division was created in response to a need for individuals within these agencies to share unique challenges and opportunities in policing that emerge within departments of this size. Working as the incubator for the profession, the Midsize Agencies Division provides new advancements in police practices that can be vetted and proven for replication across the field.

The Midsize Agencies Division meets in person, twice a year. The division will meet at the IACP Division Midyear and the IACP Annual Conference and Exposition. This division provides valuable perspectives through several opportunities such as the IACP Executive Board of Directors, Federal Working Groups, Law Enforcement Policy Center, and Executive Leadership Services.
